

PIANO INSTRUCTOR – take over existing studio

Join a Thriving Community of Music Makers

The Concord Conservatory of Music (CCM) seeks an experienced, inspiring Piano Instructor to join our faculty beginning in August 2026.

This is an exceptional opportunity for a dedicated educator to assume an established piano studio and become part of a vibrant nonprofit community music center serving the MetroWest Boston region.

At CCM, we believe music transforms lives. Through exceptional instruction, performance opportunities, and community engagement, we inspire students of all ages and abilities to develop confidence, creativity, discipline, and a lifelong love of music. Our faculty are accomplished musician-educators who share a commitment to artistic excellence and student-centered learning.

If you are passionate about teaching, enjoy working with students of diverse ages and backgrounds, and seek a collaborative musical community, we invite you to apply.

Schedule

Two afternoon/evening teaching days per week

Additional morning teaching opportunities available

Start date: Late August 2026

Position Overview

The Piano Instructor will inherit an existing studio of students and will be responsible for providing engaging, high-quality instruction to children, teens, and adults across a range of experience levels.

The successful candidate will demonstrate excellence in piano pedagogy, foster meaningful student relationships, and contribute to CCM's welcoming and collaborative culture. Experience teaching multiple musical styles, including classical, folk, and contemporary traditions—is highly valued.

Responsibilities

Teach private piano lessons to students ranging from beginner through advanced levels.

Design individualized lesson plans that support each student's musical and personal growth.

Inspire students through engaging, student-centered instruction.

Coach chamber groups, ensembles, or collaborative music experiences as appropriate.

Participate in student recitals, faculty performances, community programs, and outreach initiatives.

Communicate regularly and professionally with students and families.

Attend faculty meetings and contribute to the life of the Conservatory.

Fulfill faculty responsibilities outlined in the CCM Faculty Handbook.

Qualifications

Ideal candidates will possess:

Demonstrated success teaching piano students of varying ages, abilities, and learning styles.

A strong background in piano performance and pedagogy.

Excellent interpersonal, organizational, and communication skills.

A commitment to creating an inclusive, supportive, and inspiring learning environment.

The ability to motivate students while maintaining high musical standards.

Enthusiasm for collaborative, community-based music education.

Preferred:

Master's degree in Music, Piano Performance, Piano Pedagogy, or a related field.

Four or more years of private studio teaching experience.

Experience teaching a variety of musical genres and styles.

Compensation

Compensation is competitive and commensurate with experience, credentials, and student enrollment.
